

Appendix: chains ranked by share of outlets rated 0 to 2, and every 0 to 2-rated outlet of the 60 largest chains

Prepared by nuze.com on 29 September 2026 from the Food Standards Agency's Food Hygiene Rating Scheme open data (all 363 authorities downloaded via api.ratings.food.gov.uk on 29 September 2026) and, for trends, Internet Archive captures of the FSA's per-authority open data files for 2019, 2022 and 2024. "Rated" means a numeric rating 0 to 5; percentages of ratings use rated premises as the denominator; "awaiting" uses all premises. A rating is a snapshot of the inspection date. Scotland's separate pass-or-fail scheme is excluded. Contains public sector information licensed under the Open Government Licence v3.0. Chains were identified by name with 226 rules checked by hand against the 120 most common names on the register; outlets registered under a franchisee's or host site's name are missed, so counts understate estates (about 92% of McDonald's and 86% of Greggs were found before allowing for Scotland). Pub companies and J D Wetherspoon are largely undetectable. Figures describe the outlets found. Trend columns compare outlets rated at each archived snapshot, not a fixed panel.

2. Every 0 to 2-rated outlet of the 60 largest chains (628 premises, as recorded by the council on 29 September 2026)

Columns: chain; business name as registered; address; postcode; council; rating; date of the rating; and the three sub-scores (hygiene, structural, confidence in management: lower is better). A rating is the council's finding on the inspection date shown; the business may since have been re-inspected.
